It’s Raining!

NAME ___________________________ CLASS ____________

Magic Square

Directions: After reading It’s Raining! by Gail Gibbons, put the number of the definition listed below in the square with the correct term. Check your answers by adding the numbers across each row, down each column, and diagonally. The Magic Number is the total you get each time.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>meteorologist</th>
<th>evaporation</th>
<th>thunderstorm</th>
<th>=</th>
<th>stratus</th>
<th>cumulus</th>
<th>lightning</th>
<th>=</th>
<th>nimbostratus</th>
<th>rainbow</th>
<th>condensation</th>
<th>=</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

1. When the sun warms the air and water vapor rises into the sky
2. When water vapor turns into millions of liquid droplets
3. Clouds that produce drizzle or light rain and are low in the sky
4. Dark clouds that bring steady, heavy rain
5. Patchy, puffy clouds that are low in the sky and produce drizzle or light rain
6. Thunder, lightning, and raindrops that come down hard and fast create a
7. A flash of electricity
8. A scientist who studies and predicts the weather
9. An arc made of seven different colors

The Magic Number is ________________.

If you like this book, then check out more from Gail!

Check out www.holidayhouse.com for more fun activities!
www.HolidayHouse.com